

Abstract

A composition and process for making the composition, the composition comprising a liposome and active platinum compound, the liposome containing one or more lipids, with a high active platinum compound to lipid ratio.